> ATTACK INCITED BY RELATIONS WITH JAPAN

Yakes Recommendation That Would-Be Assassins Thought to Avenge Their Nation by Shedding Blood.

> SAN FRANCISCO, March 3 .- With the revolver of the would-be assassin concealed in a handkerchief, D. W. Stevens, formerly counsellor to the Japanese embassy at Washington, but for several years diplomatic adviser to the Korean government at Seoul, was shot and seriously wounded this morning as he was about to leave for Washington. Three shots were fired at Mr. Stevens from a 32-caliber revolver by I. W. Chang. a diminutive Koreau. The first bullet missed the diplomat. and accidentally struck and perhaps fatally wounded M. W. Chung, one fatally wounded M. W. Chung, one of the three or four Koreans who were lying in wait for Mr. Stevens with the intention of killing him, and who, a moment before, had struck him a vicious blow in the face. The other two shots took effect in Mr. Stevens's back, one bullet striking him under the right shoulder blade, near the spinul column, and the second a few inches lower. While the wounds are serious, it is said that the chances for Mr. Stevens's recovery are good. Stevens's recovery are good

To Escape Late Decisions.

One of the most interesting actions of the federation bill is that which seeks to relieve organized labor from the suppressive effects of the recent Supreme Court decision declaring labor Supreme Court decision declaring labor unions to be conspiracies in restraint of trade, and therefore unlawful. The bill, broadly speaking, aims to restore the unions their right of peaceable existence, including the right to strike, but leaving them still amenable to the Sherman act in the matter of boycotts, picketing and similar coercive practices. The section is as follows:

"Nothing in said act, approved July 2, 1890, or in this act, is intended, nor shall any provision thereof hereafter be enforced, so as to interfere with, or to restrict any right of employees to strike for any cause or to combine or to contract with each other or with employers, for the purpose of peaceably

Purpose of the Measure

The bill introduced today does no attempt to change the legal status of anything condemned as in restraint of trade under the Sherman anti-trust act; but it aims to provide a way by act; but it aims to provide a way by which, under certain conditions, combinations and contracts in restraint of trade that are not unreasonable may be saved from attack. The benefits and immunities offered by the proposed hill, therefore, will be in the main confined to those who register in accordance with the terms of the bill. Common carriers may register with the Interstate Commerce commission and Interstate Commerce commission, and all others with the Commissioner of Corporations in the Department of Commerce and Labor. It is proposed to amend section 7 of the Sherman anti-trust act by cutting out the provision for threefold damages, reducing the amount that can be collected to simple damages, as under the common law.
